Trip Cancellation and Trip Interruption Insurance

Semester at Sea Spring 2027 Voyage

A Semester at Sea voyage represents a major investment for students and parents in both time and money. We want to be certain that parents and students have an opportunity to protect their financial commitment. In an effort to minimize any potential financial loss, Semester at Sea recommends that travel insurance is obtained. To assist with this, Semester at Sea has identified a third-party provider of trip protection plans, Education Insurance. You will need to work directly with them to secure this protection.

Important Enrollment Details

- To be eligible for optional Cancel or Interrupt for Any Reason coverage, you must purchase the plan prior to your final payment deadline for program fees owed to Semester at Sea. For most voyagers this is October 20 but check your own documentation to determine that.
- You are not eligible for the optional Cancel or Interrupt for Any Reason coverage (CFAR or IFAR) if you enroll in the insurance plan after your Semester at Sea's final payment due date, however, the base plan will still be available to purchase.
- You will have the option of enrolling in the base plan any time prior to the day before departure (January 4).
- If you enroll in Semester at Sea after Semester at Sea's published final payment due date, you will have up until the day your final payment is due to enroll in optional CFAR or IFAR coverage. The base plan will also still be available to you up until the day before departure.
- This plan has a maximum trip cost of $37,000. If your costs exceed $37,000, please use the maximum, otherwise, you will receive a message that states no plans are available.

We strongly recommend parents and students carefully consider this option for your family. Per Semester at Sea's Payment and Refund Policy, full refunds are not available after the final payment deadline and partial refunds are only available until 31 days prior to voyage departure. Within 30 days of voyage embarkation and after voyage departure, Semester at Sea's program fee is not refundable for any reason including forced withdrawal for medical and/or mental health reasons. Review Semester at Sea's policy linked above for the detailed refund schedule.
